

Judy Hills

I started as a governor in Summer 2020 and sit on the Impact Committee. My husband and I live just down the road from the school, and I am keen to be an active part of the community. I am an Assistant Headteacher at a secondary school in South Oxfordshire with a primary responsibility for Teaching and Learning.

I recently worked on Curriculum development in an Oxford primary school as part of my previous role as Associate Assistant Head across an Academy Trust. I have a degree in Geography and Masters in Learning and Teaching, both from Oxford University. I was previously a staff governor at another school and hope that I will be able to bring some experience from the educational world to the Governor team.
